Press release

100 Years on - a better day in prospect

03 August 2000

Release number 423

The weather in Hertfordshire 100 years ago when the Queen Mother was born was quite unpleasant for early August. There was lots of cloud, some early rain, and a chilly northwest wind kept temperatures pegged between 13 and 18°C.

Met. Office forecasters are promising a better day tomorrow for the hundredth birthday celebrations with a mixture of patchy cloud, sunny spells, and maximum temperatures of 21 or 22°C.

For further information:
Met Office Press Office +44 (0)1392 886655

Met Office Customer Centre 0870 900 0100
If you're outside the UK +44 (0)1392 885680

© Crown copyright